GREAT Grannies

NANNA WOMERRY

A year after my wedding, my mum, Isobel, 69, died from a brain tumour. I was devastated, and so was Mum's sister, Rosemary, 58. We tried to help each other through our grief but, shortly after, Rosemary was diagnosed with breast cancer. She had a mastectomy and chemotherapy and, while she was recovering, I discovered I was pregnant. After all the sadness, it was wonderful to have something to celebrate and to see her so excited about Georgia's birth. Georgia, now three, just adores her 'Womerry'. I'm expecting another child this month and can't wait to see the joy on Rosemary's face once again.

TOT Tips

Every day, my baby Kyle and I spend some time trying to make each other giggle. It's an easy way to reconnect after a long day!

● Zylia Parlowy, 35, via email

Kyle and I have a giggle

During my four-year-old daughter Chloë's evening bath I ask if she has any worries to mix in with the bubbles. If she has, at the end of her bath she pulls out the plug and we watch as her 'worries' drift away down the plug hole. It's really therapeutic - and sometimes I join in too!
